

BEd Honours

It all starts here®

Introduction

By obtaining a qualification at the North-West University (NWU) you will accelerate your career and improve your effectiveness and efficiency in the classroom.

The North-West University:

- is one of a few worldwide universities that has a strong contact-, as well as a distance learning mode of delivery;
- is an internationally recognised university with an international student body from 68 countries;
- is the second largest university in South Africa with more than 70 000 students;
- has some of the best academic support programmes in Africa resulting in a success rate of 86,3% by our students; and
- the International Universum research shows that 82% of NWU students will choose the university again as first choice for their studies.

Teacher Education at the North-West University has a proud history since 1919, and the Faculty of Education is now the largest provider of contact and open distance learning in South Africa. The fact that so many teachers choose to upgrade their professional qualifications with us, and that so many prospective students apply for entry to the BEdHons and our other programmes says something. We think it says something about...

- The quality of the work done in our programmes (grounded, professional, critical and academic);
- The attention paid to students by our staff (dedicated, caring, professional academics and administrators);
- The quality of student life and development offered by the faculty itself (social, sport, integrated development and community engagement);
- The great reputation enjoyed by our students and graduate teachers who are recommended to us by schools throughout the country.

Mode of Delivery

Prospective students who are full-time employed in the education sector and interested in furthering their studies as distance students may apply for the following BEdHons Programmes through the Unit for Open Distance Learning:

- BEdHons in Curriculum Studies
- BEdHons in Educational Management and Leadership
- BEdHons in Mathematics Education
- BEdHons in Special Needs Education
- BEdHons in Life Orientation

The academic offering is based on the philosophy of self-directed and self-regulated learning. Teaching and learning is managed through the NWU's eFundi Learning Management System, downloads on UODL's website, whiteboard sessions and other electronic means of communication.

Academics in the Faculty of Education are responsible for the teaching, learning and assessment of modules in a BEdHons programme. NWU's academics at all three campuses set examination papers to ensure that all NWU's students are meeting the required module outcomes. The examination papers are fully aligned in both contact and distance modes of delivery.

Distance students write examinations at the NWU examination centres in South Africa and Namibia.

English is the medium of instruction for all distance programmes.

Applications close 31 July.
